Discussion

STRESS: No matter what the stressors are, all are added together by the body to cause dis-ease. For instance, structural or physical trauma, emotional stress, poor diet, infection, toxic exposure, leaky gut, births, deaths, lack of sleep, temperature changes, using computers or other electromagnetic devices, and allergies or food sensitivities add together to give you a total stress index and cause adaptation to every aspect of body function and health.*

Hans Selye, an endocrinologist, called the body's short- and long-term reactions to stressors the general adaptation syndrome (GAS). His research showed that the stomach and gastrointestinal tract became inflamed and even ulcerated; the adrenals first hypertrophied and later shrunk; and the thymus, spleen, and the rest of the immune system became much less effective and allowed severe and chronic infections. He divided this process into three categories of degeneration: Alarm, Resistance, and Exhaustion. Many of our modern-day testing methods find most of the population in the exhausted state.

MaX Adrenal Herbal™ contains a synergistic blend of nutrients and herbs to support the body's endocrine system, immune function, and its healthy response to stress.*

» Supportive herbs include Bionectria ochroleuca, deglycerized licorice root, American ginseng, astragalus, and slippery elm.*

» Activated B vitamins are present to support energy production in the body and support a healthy response to stress.*

» Albion® TRAACS® (the real amino acid chelate system) mineral amino acid chelates, along with other chelated minerals, are incorporated into the formula to support immune function, energy generation, and the promotion of sufficient enzyme activity.*

» Vitamin C with bioflavonoids and proanthocyanidins from grape seed extract are provided to support antioxidant systems and metabolic activity.*

» Chlorella is present to support healthy detoxification.*

» Amino acids are present to support neurotransmitter synthesis and detoxification during the body's healthy response to stress.*

MaX Adrenal Herbal is formulated to support health in the face of everyday stressors; it pairs herbs with supportive nutrients to provide a foundation to best support the body's response to stress.*

“MaX Adrenal Herbal contains a synergistic blend of nutrients and herbs to support the body's endocrine system, immune function, and its healthy response to stress.*”

“The most expensive formula is the one that is not utilized by the body.”

BioEnergyX Technology Includes:

- » Activated B-vitamins that require no enzymatic conversion in the body to be utilized.
- » Fourth Generation Folate: Patented material (Quatrefolic®) features better stability, solubility, and bioavailability when compared to other forms of activated folate.*
- » Albion Chelated Minerals: Patented chelates are found to be absorbed at a significantly greater rate than mineral salts or non-chelated forms of minerals. Chelated minerals provide the benefit of not being used as a fuel source for pathogens; and they do not bind with fiber, so they won't be flushed from the body before being absorbed.*
- » 2nd generation vegetable capsules that protect nutrients from moisture and oxygen.
