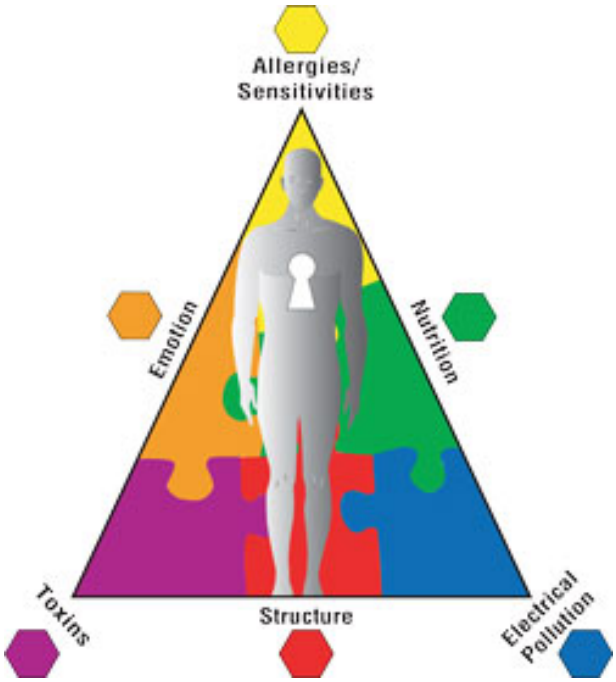
Dr. Brimhall's One More Piece of the Puzzle For Wellness

Seeking Certainty Where There Is Uncertainty

What if the Medical Community has given up hope for patients with a "Terminal Disease"?



Is there still help possible with the Six Steps to Wellness?

Bernie Segal, MD says there is no such thing as an incurable disease. He says, however, there are some incurable people. He goes on to explain he has seen many people with proclaimed incurable diseases such as cancer go into remission.

So was it incurable or not? I guess it was curable or how did it go into remission.

His opinion is no doctor really knows for sure. So we should live our life to the fullest and do all we can to be well - win, loose or draw. Some have said it is wrong to give false hope. If there is hope, how could that be false? To promise a cure is illegal. For a DC to treat cancer is illegal.

We have said it many times and every time. We do not treat diseases that have people. We may very well treat people that have diseases. I agree with Dr Segal. I want to do everything I can do to be well. I want to do the same for my patients and my family no matter what the diagnosis might be.

Dr James W Parker said to accept no credit and take no blame. If anyone has a spontaneous remission of some named and blamed condition, I will praise God, Innate, Intention etc. My records and my treatment schedule will not reflect evaluation or treatment of anything but the Six Interferences; because, that is what I would have evaluated and treated.

Who is entitled to which treatment is up to the patient? If it were me, I would want to use all of the knowledge and skills available to evaluate and treat or be treated structurally, electromagnetically, nutritionally, emotionally, for any potential allergies and to remove all possible toxins, no matter the condition or diagnosis. I would have no idea when it was too late or not worth it.

The literature says certain nutrition is helpful in prevention and in possible healing of certain conditions deemed terminal. I would personally want to use that nutrition to my greatest benefit. Green and yellow vegetables are very important according to the literature. I would want all of the total vegetables I could get and seek all of the protection possible.

So I will not answer this question individually again as to a person or a diagnosis. I will always refer anyone and everyone to this article. Not because I am being difficult, I just do not know any more than I have written here. Dr Segal says no doctor knows when it is too late. Just do all one can to be well no matter the person, the age or the diagnosis!
